Of all the books written about Titanic - where are the ones that are exclusively penned for women? Here is one such book that is 150 pages in length! In it you will find the opinions of the women aboard Titanic; before, during and after she sailed. Extracted from the author's 900 page book; "A Tragic Night Remembered - Titanic 100 Years;" only the chapters remain that are of interest to women. The provisioning of the ship, the dining menu, eating at the Ritz, comments by women as to the ship's appointments, luxury and cuisine. And of course all of the comments and testimony of women after Titanic began to sink are included as are the experiences in rescue aboard the Carpathia. A century will soon have elapsed since that fateful night beginning at 11:40 PM on April 14, 1912 when the Royal Mail Ship Titanic struck an iceberg in the middle of the North Atlantic Ocean. Early the next morning - in a large field of icebergs - Titanic sat mortally wounded and promptly sank - with a great loss of life. This book will allow you to become a time traveler, to hear those first hand accounts and testimony of women from 1912 from those no longer living - just as if you were there talking with them yourself; the actual words and experiences of women passengers that survived. Herein lies the ultimate information, passed by the lips of women; the questions and answers concerning life on board Titanic. Read the letters home; letters between sweethearts, mothers, sons and daughters to father. Read women's reactions & accounts to heroism, cowardice, shootings, rescue efforts, self preservation, the unforgettable cries and moanings, widow's comments, the survivor's treatment onboard Carpathia, arriving home, and other survivor accounts by women. Other maritime civilian and military disasters have occurred at sea before and since "Titanic", some with greater loss of passengers and life. But none of these capture the public's attention to the extent of the tragedy involving the RMS Titanic. One-hundred years after the sinking - the fascination with this event continues to grow with frenzied lack of restraint. Many seek to understand how life really was onboard this once mighty ship during an age of great optimism and invention. So much had been invented in so short a time. There was the impression that man had conquered nature! Titanic was thought to be practically unsinkable. Captain Smith believed this himself. Grand ships like Titanic must have been seen as the ultimate accomplishment of humankind. One can easily envision the great sense of loss brought about by the unexpected and sudden death of the RMS Titanic.
