This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1913 Excerpt: ...have been authenticated by the oath of the consul as well as by his certificate. It is asked in what manner this oath should itself have been authenticated, and it is supposed that the consular seal must ultimately have been resorted to for this purpose. But no such necessity exists. Commissions are always granted for taking testimony abroad, and the commissioners have authority to administer oaths and to certify the depositions by them taken. The edicts of Portugal, then, not having been proved, ought not to have been laid before the jury. 2. The paper offered as a true copy from the original proceedings against the Aurora, is certified under the seal of his arms by D. Jono de Almeida de Mello de Castro, who states himself to be the Secretary of State for foreign affairs, and the consul certifies the English copy which accompanies it to be a true translation of the Portuguese original. Foreign judgments are authenticated either, 1, by an exemplification under the Great Seal, or 2, by a copy proved to be a true copy, or 3, by the certificate of an officer authorized by law, which certificate must itself be properly authenticated. These are the usual, and appear to be the most proper, if not the only, modes of verifying foreign judgments.... If it be true that the decrees of the colonies are transmitted to the seat of government and registered in the department of State, a certificate of that fact under the Great Seal, with a copy of the decree authenticated in the same manner, would be sufficient evidence of the verity of what was so certified, but the certificate offered to the Court is under the private seal of the person giving it, which cannot be known to this Court, and of consequence can authenticate nothing. The paper, therefore, purporting to be a s...
